

Day 106: Day Trading Crash Course #6

Breakdown Thoughts & Core Frameworks

Patience yields higher probabilities

Build an edge by mastering a single asset

Amateur Approach

Stop chasing erratic and unpredictable movements in the NASDAQ.

Professional Approach

Timeframes must correlate to form a valid bias

Isolate focus strictly to the Daily, 4-Hour, and 1-Hour charts.

Ensure the 4-Hour and 1-Hour trends perfectly match the Daily trend.

Remove all other timeframe noise from the trading terminal.

Establish bias by identifying market boundaries

Structural Wave Diagram

Let price action prove the dominant side

Annotated Breakout

Structure dictates exactly where a thesis dies

The Invalidation Staircase

Trade based on visual facts rather than internal fears

~~Predicting~~

~~Internal Fears~~

~~Personal Desires~~

~~Trader Ego~~

Stop projecting personal desires onto the chart.

Reacting

Market Data

Visual Facts

Objective Response

Simply respond to the answers the market is already providing.

Succeeding together outpaces a lonely journey

View trading not in isolation, but as a family and community effort.

Support other entrepreneurs pursuing the best versions of themselves.

Shared growth is more sustainable than navigating the markets alone.

The complete blueprint for a trade

1. THE ASSET

DATA LESES

XAU

Focus exclusively on mastering Gold.

2. THE ALIGNMENT

DATA FEED

Require the Daily, 4-Hour, and 1-Hour trends to perfectly correlate.

3. THE TRIGGER

BREAK MORE

Wait for price action to execute a structural break.

4. THE RISK

STOP LOSS

Place the hard stop strictly behind the structural Invalidation Point.